LONG BEACH MECCA OF THREE GRAND MASONIC BODIES

Mattison B. Jones is Deputy Grand Priest of Royal Arch Masons of California

IN LINE FOR PROMOTION

Large Delegation From This City on Wednesday and Thursday

Long Beach is the Mecca for many members of Masonic orders in Southern California this week, for in that city three grand bodies are meeting. So far as Glendale Masons are concerned Wednesday will be a big day. Mattison B. Jones of this city is deputy grand high priest of Royal Arch Masons of California and is therefore in line for election on Wednesday to the office of grand high priest. Unity Chapter of this city has therefore been asked by the program committee to take charge as host of a reception to the grand high priest who will be elected and installed that day. A large delegation will go from this city Wednesday and probably also on Thursday and Friday, which will be Knights Templar days.

A brief study of the program shows that the Grand Council R. & S. M. convened today at 10 o'clock. An adjournment was to be taken at 12 for lunch. A 2 o'clock the exemplification of Royal Arch degree is put on by Signet Chapter, Los Angeles, and at 8 p. m. there is a grand convention of the Order of High Priesthood.

Wednesday the grand chapter convenes at 10 a. m. In the afternoon there will be automobile sightseeing trips. At 7:30 there will be open house and reception to the grand high priest by Unity Chapter of Glendale in the Masonic Temple. At 8 p. m. a Masonic ball in the auditorium at the foot of Pine street.

Thursday and Friday will be Knights Templar days. The Commandery will convene at 10 a. m. At 1:30 there will be a parade. A 4 o'clock there will be competitive drills. At 10:30 there will be dancing and at 11 p. m. awarding of trophies.

Friday the Grand Commandery convenes at 9 a. m., when exemplification of full form opening takes place. At 1:30 the Grand Commandery convenes again and there will be automobile sightseeing trips and other diversions.

REALTY MARKET IS GOOD, SAYS KULP

Edwin F. Kulp, of 205A North Brand, in discussing the outlook in the real estate market, said: "I think we are going to have a good spring and summer and I base this opinion on the number of inquiries we are having. I believe there are more actual buyers in the market than we have had before in several months. We have a city ideally located in a beautiful spot within easy access of Los Angeles. We have the hills for a background and exceptionally favorable climatic conditions. Also, I think the majority of Glendale people take an interest in their town. Our people are democratic, we have no great extremes of wealth or poverty and that makes a good residence town."

FRIDAY'S GAME WAS A HARD ONE TO LOSE

Friday's game with Monrovia was a hard game for Glendale to lose, as battling honors were even, but the Glendale boys threw the contest away with their many errors. The score was 11 to 4 in Monrovia's favor. Aaegson pitched five innings and Dale Wood the other four. Both are promising young twirlers and are fast rounding into shape, so that either can last out an entire game. But Coach Hayhurst is wisely not urging them, as he prefers losing a few games to overworking such likely young twirlers. Tomorrow's game will be with Alhambra.

Condmine's invention of caoutchouc was made in 1736.

GARDEN SEEDS

Congressman Walter F. Lineberger's idea of the foolishest waste in the world is the sending of government garden seeds to the flat-dweller in the roaring town, or the overworked doctor, or the too-tired business man, or the blase bondholder who'd rather buy his garden sass out of a perfectly good vegetable market, anyway.

"I do not believe in cluttering up the mails with these garden seeds," says the newly elected congressman from the ninth district, "when it is quite possible that hundreds of people who receive them do not want them and never make use of them. To those who especially desire them I will be glad to send them, on receipt of a postal card addressed to me at Washington."

LOCAL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE EVENTS

Glendale Organization To Be Represented at Civic Dinner in Fillmore

The directorate of the chamber of commerce will meet in the bungalow of the high school tomorrow at 12 o'clock as usual, but in the absence of President Cooper, who will be away for several weeks, first Vice President Jesse Smith will preside. Mr. Bruess, who is heading the tire company which has taken an option on property just west of Glendale with the avowed purpose of establishing an industrial center there, will be present and address the directorate.

Tonight, Secretary Rhoades, Owen Emery and L. T. Riley will represent the chamber at a civic dinner which is being given in Fillmore for the purpose of organizing a chamber of commerce in that city. Mr. Rhoades and Mr. Emery will each address the meeting.

INAUGURAL BALL AT ELKS' CLUB

The ball room at the Elks clubhouse was resplendent Saturday evening with elaborate decorations in the Elks colors and handsome costumes of the ladies who were guests of the inaugural ball, given in honor of the recently installed officers: Exalted ruler, Alfred F. Priest; esteemed leading knight, Arthur H. Dibbern; esteemed loyal knight, James A. Appfel; esteemed lecturing knight, Earl Patterson; tyler, Frank K. Lowe; secretary, W. M. Kimball; treasurer, Herman Nelson; trustee for three years, Harry E. White; delegate to convention, John H. Fanset; alternate to convention, S. C. Packer.

The large number of congenial people there convened tripped the light fantastic till early morn, to the usual excellent dance music furnished by the Elks' orchestra.

Refreshments were also an enjoyable feature of the evening.

GLENDALIANS WHO HAVE MOVED HOMES

W. B. Croft of 161 South Central, has moved to 1016 South Serrano street, Los Angeles.

E. E. Adams of 408 East Elk is reported to have transferred his residence to La Crescenta.

J. W. Duncan of 515 West California has moved to 416 West California.

E. J. Kearns has gone from 925 North Louise to Santa Monica canyon.

I. J. Jordan has moved from 304 East Harvard to 647 North Isabel.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR DAUGHTER

In honor of the seventeenth birthday of their daughter, Gladys Chandler Peckham, a merry crowd of young people responded on Saturday evening to the invitations of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Peckham of 615 North Central avenue. A pink color scheme was carried out in the beautifully decorated rooms and in the dainty refreshments which were served by the hostess. Dancing and music were the diversions of the evening.

H. S. WEBB BUYS LOT ON EAST BROADWAY

Purchases Emery Lot on North Side of Street Near Maryland for $10,000

E. U. and Owen Emery will have to find another site for the building they were to erect for the improvement of Broadway in which they have the greatest confidence as a business street. Others, however, had come to appreciate the fact that its site on the north side of the street midway between Louise and Maryland and cornering on the alley was very favorable. H. S. Webb was one of these far-sighted gentlemen and learning that it could be bought for $10,000 he handed over the money and became the owner. After the bargain had been completed and the transaction closed he learned that a syndicate of business men was on his heels and had he not acted quickly the chance would have been lost to him. Almost immediately he was offered for it several thousand dollars more than he paid. The sale was made through the agency of Cameron Thom and his associates in the Glendale Realty Company. Mr. Webb has no present intention of changing the location of the H. S. Webb store, but he wishes to insure himself against the future and know that should the time ever come when he wants to erect a modern, up-to-the-minute department store he will have a desirable location in the heart of the business district. He may conclude to improve it in the near future with stores which can be adapted to his own business when he is ready to make use of them, but, as stated, he expects his dry goods store to remain where it is for some time to come.

He has great faith in the future of Glendale, especially East Broadway which he thinks will rival Brand boulevard.

EASTERN AUTOIST LIKES OUR CURVES

The widening of the curves in the new Glendale boulevard, which connects Brand boulevard with Edendale and Los Angeles, has been commended by various eastern tourists. Recently Miss Leonore Lynard in making a trip to the Flintridge region in her Chandler sedan was so favorably impressed by the wide curves that she made pictures to send to friends in the east, as an indication of Southern California's up-to-date ideas in road building. Miss Lynard remarked. "The only place in which I feel the least timidity when motoring is in the curves. I am always so fearful of somebody coming in the opposite direction and meeting me in a curve. In fact, it always seems to me that they are narrower than the rest of the road. Consequently, I was delighted to see how Los Angeles county is meeting this condition by putting an extra wide shoulder in the curves in this Glendale boulevard."

The construction of this new road has brought Glendale and Burbank several minutes closer to Los Angeles. It is the shortest and best approach to Griffith park. It will undoubtedly soon become the gateway route, to San Fernando valley. In order to strike this road one follows Second from Figueroa, passing north along Echo park, and on through Edendale. Silver Lake is passed on the left and the road then winds among the hills to the Los Angeles river, which is bridged near Ivanhoe.

The route along the new highway is very attractive from a scenic standpoint, and many automobilists from Pasadena are choosing this route as the most desirable route into Los Angeles. It shortens the distance to Flintridge Sunland, Tujunga and La Canada.

WILL NOT REMOVE THORNTON HOME

The sale of Colonel Tom Thornton's residence property and the lot next to it, Numbers 301 and 305 North Brand, 103x150 feet, to a retired capitalist, marks another forward step in North Brand's development. The purchaser has made no plans for the future of the property and Colonel Thornton will retain his residence there or lease, indefinitely.

MILITARY FUNERAL HONORS COMRADE

American Legion and National Guard of Glendale Participate in Obsequies

A military funeral will mark the last obsequies for Fred Schlichter, son of Mr. and Mrs. August Schlichter of this city, who died April 8 at Quantico, Va., and whose body did not reach Glendale until April 16. He was a member of the United States Marine Corps and contracted a heavy cold as a result of exposure while serving as guard at the inauguration of President Harding in Washington. This is thought to have been the indirect cause of his death although he supposedly recovered from that indisposition.

The services, which will take place at the Jewel City Undertaking Parlors this afternoon at 2 o'clock will be conducted by Rev. C. M. Calderwood of this city, who was an army chaplain during the world war. Members of the Glendale Post, American Legion, who will act as pall bearers are: Past Commander Dru Nicoles, Louis Roberts, Fred Butts, Alphonse Moniot, Joe Kucera, Jesse Smith and Captain T. D. Watson.

A firing squad made up of members of the Glendale Company, California National Guards which will be in charge of Sergeant George Grist will fire the salute at the services in Forest Lawn where interment will take place. The men who have been detailed for this sad duty besides Sergeant Grist are: E. Jodon, M. Lawyer, Bernard Dennison, Roy Weetman, Jim Hill, Paul Holland, Kenneth Jackson and Robert Stone.

Fred Schlichter was but 21 years of age. The sympathy of the community goes out to his parents and his six brothers and sisters over his untimely passing.

FIRST INVESTMENT SHOULD BE A HOME

"Home owners are the backbone of any community, of any nation," says George H. Bentley, of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Company.

They are the people who count in any localitty. The neighbors of a home owner feel that he is one of them, and place confidence in him. To be known as a home owner is the best recommendation possible for you. It gives you the stamp of stability. It gives you the confidence, not only of your immediate neighbors, but of the banker, the merchant, the community at large. Success is founded on the confidence people have in you. Owning your home helps you in business. No matter what your work or position may be, owning your home will help you to better things.

To own a home makes for steadfastness of character; to move from place to place as a renter encourages shiftless habits of thought and action.

Home owning brings content; renting leads to restlessness. Home owning brings independence, not only of circumstances but also of character and thought. Home owning tends to make one a better father, a better mother, a better citizen. It gives your children the invaluable benefit of real home influence.

Do not put off home buying until you have the other things you want. Your first investment should be for a home.

This was the way of our fathers; this way lies true Americanism.

The best American in the nature of things is the man who owns a part of America—his home.

FIRST MEETING HELD IN THE TABERNACLE

The young people of the various Glendale churches held their first meeting in the tabernacle. The praise and testimony service was full of inspiration and enthusiasm. The topic used by the leader, Howard L. Brown, chairman of the young people's committee for the John Brown meetings, was "Saved to Serve." Next week's union meeting will probably be led by Otis Ironmonger, the singer and young people's worker of the evange-

BUSINESS BLOCKS FOR NORTH BRAND

Excavation was begun this morning for Julius Kranz's business and apartment building at the southwest corner of California and Brand, facing on the latter street, with numbers 245-247. The building will be 53x80, two stories, with store rooms below and six apartment suites above. Mr. Kranz expects to later build an addition to the rear, 53x70, two stories in height. The property, when all is completed, will represent an investment of over $40,000.

Dr. French Arnold owns the lot just south of that of Mr. Kranz, having bought it of Nathan Rigdon a few months ago. He contemplates having erected in the near future a building similar to that of Mr. Kranz, to cost probably $15,000, which sum is the probable cost of Mr. Kranz's first unit.

WORK TO BEGIN SOON ON WALKER BUILDING

Th Vert-Mont rooming house is at its new location, 130 North Maryland, and work will begin soon on clearing away the rubbish from the former sitet, 117-119 East Broadway, preparatory to starting the new two-story brick business building which Howard and Fred Walker will erect.

P. RENTFROW TO BUILD

Perry Rentfrow is figuring on the erection of a business building on his lot, 25x106, at 119 West Broadway. He may decide on a two-story building but is uncertain until he gets figures on both one and two story.

REV. J. S. O'NEILL'S LONG-CHERISHED AMBITION

Cornerstone of Holy Family Church Laid With Impressive Ceremonies

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND

Mgr. Harnett, Vicar-General, and John Steven McGroarty Speak

Impressive ceremonies attended the blessing of the cornerstone of the Church of the Holy Family at Elk avenue and Louise street, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. A large number of Glendale residents were in attendance as well as many from nearby cities.

Vicar General Officiates

It was appropriate that Right Reverend Monsignor Harnett should officiate at the laying of this cornerstone for he is one of the pioneer priests of Los Angeles; years ago when he organized the parish of the Sacred Heart church in East Los Angeles, the territory that is now Glendale was a part of that parish and he has often ridden out here over rough roads and through the mountain canyons on sick calls.

Monsignor Harnett was assisted in the ceremony of blessing the cornerstone by Rev. Father J. S. O'Neill, pastor of the church; Rev. Henry Welch, S. J., Rev. Zachary Maher, S. J., Rev. Cornelius Deeny, S. J., all of Loyola College; Rev. George Donahue of the Sacred Heart church, Los Angeles; Rev. Patrick O'Donahue, church of Our Lady of Loretta, Los Angeles; Rev. Francis Woodcutter, of St. Rita's, Sierra Madre; Rev. Clarence Kimmon, of Van Nuys.

The rite of the blessing and laying of the cornerstone is a simple one. A wooden cross is set up to indicate the place where the altar is to stand. The bishop or his delegate blesses the place where the cross stands and sprinkles it with holy water. He then blesses the foundation stone in the same manner. Upon the stone itself the rubric directs that he engrave crosses on each side with a knife, then he pronounces the following prayer:

"Bless, O Lord, this creature of stone, and grant by the invocation of Thy holy name that all who with a pure mind shall lend aid to the building of this church may obtain soundness of body and the healing of their souls. Through Christ our Lord, Amen."

Then follows the Litany of the Saints, an appropriate antiphon, Psalm 126, "Unless the Lord shall build the house," and the stone is again sprinkled with holy water, while the bishop again visits the other foundations and sprinkles them with holy water.

Glendale's Mayor Speaks

Father O'Neill introduced Dwight Stephenson, president of the board of trustees of Glendale, who said that he had rearranged business engagements in order to have the pleasure of meeting a part of his fellow-citizens and to represent the city of Glendale in their rejoicing. Mr. Stephenson said a city's progress is in the ratio of the growth of its churches; the cause of God moves hand in hand with civilization. He spoke of the ever-growing spirit of tolerance

GREATEST MOMENT IN MODERN HISTORY

Luther the Father of Modern Civilization—Captive to the Word of God

"And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free." John 8:32.

Jesus said, "I am the way, the truth and the life," and because he bore witness to the truth he was hailed before Pontius Pilate, falsely accused, and condemned to die the cruel death of the cross.

Saul of Tarsus was stricken blind by a light that was brighter than the noon-day sun. He was made blind practically that he might have his spiritual eyes opened to know the truth. He was brought before Felix, and as Paul reasoned of righteousness, temperance and judgment to come Felix trembled. And yet Paul died a martyr's death because he dared to stand fast in the liberty wherein Christ had made him free.

John Huss denounced the false doctrines of the church and he was burned at the stake. Arnold was bold enough to declare that the church had no grounds on which to rest its claim for temporal power. He insisted that the clergy should live as Christ and the apostles did, supported by tithes and free will offerings. The pope banished him, and Emperor Frederick hanged him.

These early reformers did not succeed, but they aroused the consciences of other men against the spirit of oppression that dominated the church and state, thereby preparing the way for the coming of a mighty man who could face the emperor and defy the pope successfully. The fate of these forerunners was well known to Luther when he was excommunicated, and afterwards cited to appear before the emperor on April 17, 1521, 400 years ago today, to answer once for all whether he would recant or not.

Luther's Ninety-five Theses, nailed to the door of the Castle church at Wittenberg nearly four years before, was the enlightening leaven that had shaken Europe from center to circumference. Frederick hte Wise was the friend of Martin Luther, and the young Emperor Charles V. was under obligation to Frederick. This placed Frederick in a position to assist his friend. The shrewdness of the elector would indicate that he was worthy of the name, "The Wise," for he refused to consent to having Luther appear at Worms for trial unless the emperor would guarantee a safe conduct to the diet as well as a safe return. It was also stipulated that Luther must be permitted to go of his own accord.

The young monk had burned the papal bull of excommunication; and when he was warned not to go, he uttered memorable words: "Though there were as many devils in Worms as there are tiles on the roof yet would I go on." Luther had become immensely popular with the masses, which was the ground upon which the safe conduct was assured. His entrance into the city of Worms on the 16th day of April, 1521, was a great ovation. A trumpet call announced, "He's coming," and the streets were soon so crowded that they were compelled to go through a private garden to get Luther to his place of entertainment.

On the 17th day of April he was summoned to appear before the diet at 4 p. m. As he was about to enter the door of the great hall a general with a gray beard laid his hand on Luther's shoulder and said: "Little monk, you are about to go into a more terrible battle than I or my knights have even engaged in; but if your cause is just God is with you, and you need have no fear."

On the throne, rich with costly gold brocade, sat the young emperor. He was surrounded with princes, archbishops, cardinals, dukes, margraves, and the ambassadors of all the rulers of Europe. It was the greatest assembly ever convened on earth, for the world's pomp and glory had gathered there. Carlyle declares that "Luther's appearance before the diet at Worms on the 17th day of April, 1521, my be considered the greatest scene in modern European history; the point indeed, from which the whole subsequent history of civilization takes its rise."

Luther had railed against the worship of saints and the sale of indulgences. He said to the pope, "This thing of yours that you call a Pardon of Sins, it is a bit of rag paper with ink. It is nothing else. God alone can forgive sins. And now the monk is called upon to recant. On his way the people crowded the windows and the housetops, calling out to him, 'Free us; it rests with thee; desert us not.'"

Luther did not betray his trust. His speech was of two hours' duration, given on the second day. It was marked by a dignified bearing, a wise, submissive and honest appeal to the Word of God. When a final answer was demanded, he replied, I will give you one with neither hoofs nor horns; "Unless I am refuted and convinced by proofs of Holy Writ, or by plain and just arguments, I cannot and will not recant. My conscience is bound to the Word of God. On this I stand. God help me, I cannot do otherwise, Amen."

The emperor was amazed; but the people were delighted, and popular sentiment now ran high in Luther's favor.

But you may inquire, What are some of the results that have come to us through this heroic stand? The consciences of men had been bound by the official representatives of the church, by priests and popes. The personal liberty that we now enjoy would not be ours had it not been for the heroic stand of Martin Luther at Worms. Modern education, with its free school system, are the results of the Reformation. The separation of church and state, and the religious liberty to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience have come to us as a result of Luther's stand at Worms.

The parsonage and the pastor's wife are two direct results of Luther's position. He broke up a nunnery and married one of the nuns, Catherine Von Bora. He afterward declared that she was God's greatest gift to him; and that he would not give her up for all the dominions of France and Venice.

An estimate of the value of Luther's influence for the good of humanity may be had by a comparison with other public men. According to the catalogue of the British Museum, which certainly would not err in favor of the German reformer, no other name, save that of Jesus Christ, exceeds or approaches the amount of space given to the registering of titles of works about Martin Luther.

England has had more to say about Luther than any other nation except his own. That the English Bible was translated largely from Luther's German version, and that the 39 Articles of the Church of England were founded on Luther's formulas is generally known.

In concluding we will let others bear testimony to the greatness of our hero. Rev. S. F. Buchanan of Oxford, said: "I may say that spiritually I owe more to Martin Luther than to any of my own countrymen, and am under a greater debt to him for his bravery, for his courage, for his truth, for his humanity, and for his total abstinence from all hypocrisy. If you ask me what was the grand thing about Martin Luther, it was that the man had not a line, not a trace of hypocrisy in his whole composition."

George William Curtis said: "In the truest sense Luther is the father of modern civilization."

Henry Ward Beecher declared, "Our civilization is the result of the open Bible which Luther gave us."

Phillips Brooks said: "All human progress must remember Martin Luther.

And John Calvin said, "It is not so much Luther who speaks, as God, whose lightnings burst from his lips."

Luther was not a free thinker. He stood not so much for personal liberty as he did for God's liberty to talk to a man and work through him by His Word. The Bible is the foundation for all true liberty and for true democracy. "My consciencee," said Luther, "is bound by the Bible." He was a captive to the Word of God.

CITY ARCHITECTS ARE BUSY MEN

Architect C. C. Rittenhouse has prepared plans for a one-story generator house to be erected at the Mack Sennett studio in Edendale. It will be 30x60 feet in dimensions. He has also prepared plans for a six-room bungalow for J. A. Merkle at Wilmington.

Architect Arthur G. Lindley has been commissioned to prepare plans for a new Methodist Episcopal church at Ramona. He has the plans completed for a new Methodist Episcopal church building at Escondido, and the foundation is now being laid. Mr. Lindley reports that the new building for the Methodist Episcopal congregation at Artesia, for which he prepared plans some time ago, will be erected by day labor and sub-contract. It is to cost about $30,000.

ONLY FINANCIAL PAIN

"An eminent medical authority says the heart does not feel pain."

"I didn't know that before," said the thoughtful citizen. "Poets, novelists and playwrights had misled me. But I never did believe there was any kind of pain that could be alleviated by the 'heart balm' awarded in a breach-of-promise suit."

among people of different creeds and cited the whole-souled, brotherly cooperation and service that existed in the work of the Knights of Columbus and the Y. M. C. A. during the war. "It is the prayer of all of us," said Mr. Stephenson, "that this spirit of mutual helpfulness may continue."

The Speaker of the Day

John Steven McGroarty, speaker of the day, was introduced by Rev. O'Neill as our neighbor of the Verdugo hills, who wrote the Mission Play. Mr. McGroarty said that the fine spirit of the beautiful city of Glendale as set forth in the eloquent words of the mayor of Glendale must have warmed the heart of Rev. O'Neill; that while we differ in religious convictions, even as we differ in politics, we are nevertheless one in Americanism.

As he rode over from the old mission town of San Gabriel, Mr. McGroarty said, he was thinking of the time when California began, down at San Diego; and as he listened to the words of the blessing of the cornerstone he thought how the same words and the same ritual were used to lay the cornerstone of the state of California to the beautiful city of Glendale."

Monsignor Harnett was the last speaker on the program. He said that to many, the ceremony just witnessed might seem meaningless; but that in reality it teaches a great lesson; faith in God and dependence upon Him. The cornerstone, said the speaker, was laid with these words: "In the faith of Jesus Christ I lay this cornerstone, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, to the honor and glory of God." The cornerstone of the natural building reminds us of the cornerstone of the spiritual building, which was Christ, who not only redeemed us at the inestimable price of His precious blood, but who also teaches mankind so that they may know how to apply to themselves the fruits of the redemption.

He cited Christ's several very definite assertions that He is God. "You may think it strange," said he, "that I dwell on this on such an occasion as today's; but the modern world is getting away from the divinity of Christ."

The greater part of Monsignor Harnett's eloquent, logical address dealt with the divine institution and authority of the church. "In this itself, a century and a half ago. Mr. McGroarty contrasted the methods of the East and the West in the attempts of early explorers to civilize the natives whom the white man found here. The Franciscan missionary priests subdued the Indian, not by cannon and sword, but by prayer and by God's holy altars; on the Atlantic coast the savage Indians were civilized from block houses—and civilized out of existence. The Franciscan friars who labored for the Indian's soul beside the sunset sea, took him by the hand, and by Christian love and Christian patience led him into the great white light of God. And this little handful of Franciscans left behind what is perhaps the greatest chapter in history. They taught the Indians the arts and crafts of the white man, as well as the things of the soul, and in little more than a generation they had built that wonderful chain of missions from the Harbor of the Sun to Sonoma.

It is almost unbelievable, said Mr. McGroarty, that they could accomplish so much in so short a time, and with such hopeless material as the California Indian, who was ignorant and degraded, without tradition of the past or hope of the future.

"Another temple is being reared to the honor of God today," continued the speaker; "friends of Glendale, whose near neighbor I am, I bespeak for Rev. O'Neill, whose humble parishoner I am, the good will of all of you. The work he is doing cannot but be for your town's good; it must make better citizens. His influence and his hands are always lifted up to support ideals of decency, of clean life, of high citizenship. A town that would fail to back up one who holds these aims would thereby prove that it had not a proper sense of its own importance.

"I am proud of the honor of being asked to speak on such an occasion as this—an honor the Catholic church has seldom accorded a layman, and I ask you to join with me in felicitating Rev. O'Neill on the building of this fine church which is a credit church," said the speaker, "the same doctrine will be taught that Christ and His apostles taught. What better principles can be instilled into the minds of men that can make them good citizens? We all know that when men act from principle they are determined. The great bulwark of our civil government is the Christian principles inculcated in the minds of the children of the church: Love God, honor the king, do good to all men.

"Here in this church the teachings of Christ will be inculcated into the hearts of the people; in this house of God the sacrifice of the Mass will be offered; it is truly a house of God, for He dwells here. Rejoice because from this house the blessings of God will reach you."

Monsignor Harnett congratulated the congregation on the good taste as well as the zeal of their pastor in the building of the church.

Rev. O'Neill, in the name of the parish, thanked Monsignor Harnett, John S. McGroarty, Mayor Stephenson and the friends who showed their interest by attending.

The program closed with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner" by the audience.

In the Cornerstone

The copper box placed in the cornerstone contains a copy of The Tidings, the official organ of the diocese; Saturday's edition of the Glendale Daily Press, which contains an article descriptive of yesterday's program and Rev. O'Neill's picture; a copy of the Parish Monthly; several coins bearing the date of 1921; and a parchment bearing the names of the President of the United States, the Governor of the State, the bishop of the diocese, the vicar general, the city officials of Glendale, the pastor and the Sunday School children. This data was written on parchment because it does not fade and thus the memoranda is practically everlasting.

The offering taken up by Jesse Smith's corps of ushers amounted to the gratifying sum of $325.

OFFICIAL REPORT OF LIEUT. W. D. CONEY DARING TRANSCONTINENTAL PILOT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 18.—The strange beauties and the well-nigh incalculable hazards encountered in flying at night were never more strikingly illustrated than in the posthumous official report of Lieut. W. D. Coney, the daring transcontinental pilot, just made public by the army air service.

Lieutenant Coney made a record flight from California to Florida with but two stops, each being necessitated by accidents to his p lane. He crashed and was killed on his return trip. The report which is now made public was written by Lieutenant Coney upon his arrival at Jacksonville.

Had it been written 30 years ago—20 years ago—it would have been put down as an excellent piece of imaginative writing and the action it chronicles wholly impossible of accomplishment. Into the stiff, stilted form of an official army report Coney managed to weave some of the beauties of those moonlit wastes that lay miles above the earth, and also some of the dangers—such as coming out of a cloud thousands of feet up and finding a snow-capped mountain peak only a hundred feet below.

Pall of Clouds Marred Start

Scores of pilots have been killed in just such a way—running full tilt into a mountain peak shrouded perhaps in mist while hurtling through the air anywhere from 100 to 150 miles an hour.

The report reveals that Coney's start on his ill-fated trip was not auspicious.

"It was raining and very stormy," he wrote, "the clouds black and very low. The last minute adjustments and a rechecking of compasses were acomplished in a downpour of rain. It was decided that as soon as the clouds broke to the west I would take off and climb through the hole and then turn on my course.

Full Moon Above Rain Clouds

"Shortly before 7 o'clock a hole be came visible in the west and I took the air. The ship was a little loggy and tail heavy from excess weight, but handled fairly well. I circled once over the crowd on the field, picking up their location by the numerous automobile lights, then began picking my way through the rain clouds. At 7:35 I had climbed above the clouds and was greeted by a bright full moon. The coast range of mountains was directly below, although entirely invisible from my position.

Plane Bathed in Argent Rays

"The weather from Yuma east looked very bad, the clouds extending from the mountains up to at least 14,000 feet. Flying at 8000 feet, I started to climb, as I had to have at least 12,000 feet to clear the mountain range northwest of Tucson, Ariz. The motor was working beautifully at 1500 revolutions a minute; the oil was steady at 30 pounds. The clouds were all around me, the ground being visible only in small patches through the clouds. The moon rays touched my plane only at intervals. I believed that 1500 more feet would put me above the clouds and I continued a slow climb to reach the top.

"Small lights began to appear through the broken clouds. Those I took to be towns along the Southern Pacific. I was flying now at 15,000 feet and the air was getting very rough and the clouds were thicker and heavier.

Sandwiched in the Clouds

"At 16,000 feet I ran into a heavy snowstorm. Hoping to fly through it in a short time I continued on my course rather than lose time trying to go around. Shortly after 11:30 my compass began to act queerly. It inclined to the left (I corrected on my controls without result), then it made a number of revolutions, became quiet and remained inclined to the left.

"The air was very rough and on account of the extra weight I found it difficult to keep my balance. In fact, I did make two complete turns before I realized it.

"A few minutes later I put the plane in a glide toward the southeast, as I remembered seeing thin white clouds in that direction prior to entering the snowstorm. Soon I was out of the snow but sandwiched between clouds at 10,000 feet.

Landscape Sheet of Snow

"The mountains ahead on my course were almost touching the upper layer of clouds, while their base was enveloped in clouds that appeared to contain rain. Just before reaching the ridge I flew into a down current of air and lost 700 or 800 feet altitude. Shoving my throttle full on I tried to regain my altitude, but could not Turning sharply off my course, I headed north for ten minutes and found a hole in the clouds below me. A few minutes later I was below the clouds at an altitude of 6000 feet. All charted landmarks had been wiped out, as my flying above and through the snow had made it useless for me to check the country as I passed over.

Soloing Through a Canyon

"Getting under the clouds, near the ground, I felt more comfortable. Picking the largest pass or canyon in sight, I started through toward the east. Here I ran into a heavy rainstorm and was forced to throttle my motor to 1380 revolutions a minute to save the blades of the propeller.

(Pelting rain will quickly knock a wooden propeller to pieces if revolving very rapidly. Raindrops will make dents in the hardest wood.)

Barriers of the Path

"Going between the mountains was not so bad, but it did keep me worried as I did not know at what turn I would find a mountain stopping up the exit to the pass.

Guiding Stellar Light

"Shortly after midnight I had flown out of the rain and mountains and was passing over fairly good country, hilly, but no mountains; the moon was shining through the clouds, adding greatly to my comfort. I opened my motor wide and climbed back to 10,000 feet altitude. The clouds by now were bunched in heavy banks and from their position I judged my compass course to be the same as Yuma, with the addition of one point to take care of magnetic deviation.

Fringes Mountain Top

"Flying under or over or around the clouds, through them only when I felt sure they were light and small, I proceeded on. Once while banking to avoid a heavy cloud center I noticed a snow-capped peak less than 100 feet below and touching the cloud I was flying through.

"From 1 to 4 a. m. I flew a zig-zag course, checked by the plane's clock and during this time I passed over several snow-covered ranges, through one small snowstorm and skirted innumerable cloud banks. At 4:30 I saw the first streak of the oncoming day. It looked more like a reflection of the moon on the clouds than the rising sun. I was flying at 11,000 feet with the motor running 1500. The country below was falling away into barren foothills and looked most friendly after viewing the ragged peaks so long."

Continuing his report, Lieutenant Coney details how he was forced down at Bronte, Tex., and again at Dallas, before reaching Jacksonville.

Historic Log Invaluable

The log of his historic trip reveals that the total flying time elapsed between San Diego and Jacksonville was 22 hours and 27 minutes. The average speed was 97 miles an hour and the maximum altitude attained 16,000 feet (about three miles above the earth). A total of 450 gallons of gasoline was used, about 20 gallons an hour, and 25 gallons of oil, about a gallon an hour.

The report of the dead lieutenant will be invaluable in instructing future army flyers in cross-country and transcontinental piloting. The wealth of experience obtained by the trip which could not be incorporated in the official report has, of course, been irrevocably lost by his death.

ST. PETER HELD UP BY BOLD BANDIT

(By International News Service)

EVERETT, Wash., April 18.—George Dunn, 42, is in jail here, following his attempt to hold up Fred St. Peter in the Rose theater. St. Peter became angered when the bandit attempted to remove the rings from Mrs. St. Peter's fingers. In the struggle that followed both the bandit and theatrical man were shot through the hand, but St. Peter held his opponent until help arrived. Dunn was identified as the man who obtained $350 in a store robbery recently.

HEAVY FROST DOES DAMAGE TO GRAPES

(By International News Service)

FRESNO, April 18.—Frost this week has caused the loss of 65,000 tons of the 200,000 tons prospective crop of raisin grapes, according to estimates made here.

This damage is confined principally to the San Joaquin valley. Wine and shipping grapes in the Sacramento valley have also suffered heavily, but no estimate as to the tonnage loss has been made.

One report reaching here estimated that 60 per cent of the malaga grape crop has been ruined by the frosts.

PROHIBITION LAWS

New York is the fortieth State in the Union to pass prohibition enforcement measures which place the police power of the State back of the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. The assembly of New York, by a vote of 81 to 62, passed the Gage bill on March 16, and it passed the Senate on March 22 by a vote of 29 to 20.

Governor Nathan Miller said in the course of his campaign that he stood for law enforcement by such a State law, and one of his first recommendations to the Legislature was the passage of these acts.

Under his predecessor, Governor Smith, the New York Legislature passed a so-called "beer bill," which permitted the manufacture and sale of beer containing 2¾ per cent alcohol. The latest action of the Legislature reverses that position and definitely aligns New York among the law enforcement States.

A prohibition enforcement act was passed by both houses of the New Jersey Legislature and was then vetoed by Governor Edwards. Governor Edwards has stood on a platform "to make the United States as wet as the Atlantic ocean." At the last election, however, the people of New Jersey definitely rejected his platform by returning a big majority of "dry" members to both houses of the Legislature. It is expected that this majority will be sufficient to pass the enforcement act over the Governor's veto. Unless California passes its enforcement act in the meantime, this will make New Jersey the forty-first State to get behind the Constitution.

ROWELL ROUTS WETS IN PUBLIC HEARINGS

Four wine and beer resolutions, all presented by San Francisco members of the Assembly, were up for public discussion in the Senate committee on the evenings of March 30. All of the speeches in favor of the bills were made by people from San Francisco. The dry forces were represented by Hon. Chester Rowell.

Mr. Rowell was thoroughly posted on all the legal decisions on the subject of prohibition enforcement and with all the facts in connection with it and was able to answer completely the entire argument of the San Francisco legislators.

WRIGHT ENFORCEMENT ACT

The Wright prohibition enforcement act in the California Legislature was made the special order of business of Thursday, April 7 in the Assembly. It is expected that this will be the real test of strength between the San Francisco wet organization and the united dry forces of the State.

Idle rich young men are no longer idle. They are extremely busy looking for ways to blow it in.

People who go out to hit the high spots of life generally end in the low spots of death.

A SURPRISED BUTCHER

A dignified-looking woman stepped up to an attractive-looking showcase in the meat market, and after she had bought several pieces of meat she asked:

"Have you any shin bone that I could use for soup stock?"

"Just the thing," responded the obliging clerk as he took up a long shin bone and knuckle and balanced it on his left hand.

"What is it worth?" asked the woman.

"Just a half dollar," said he.

"Jt is such a large piece, would you mind cutting it at the joint?"

"Sure I will," he replied.

After cutting off the large knuckle he again balanced the long, slim shin bone on his hand and said:

"You may have this for 40 cents."

The woman looked at the piece for a moment, then at the knuckle, and said:

"Is that piece you cut off worth only 10 centts?"

The clerk hesitatingly replied:

"Yes, madam."

"All right," said the woman, "I'll take that knuckle."

The clerk waited a moment, looked at the woman, then actually laughed aloud. But he was game and willingly wrapped up the 10-cent soup bone.—Indianapolis News.

"You can learn by degrees."

CONSIDER LINCOLN

He Made One Failure After Another and Then Reached Greatness

Don't give up the ship. If you are an editor scraping along for a living, or a retail merchant trying to make one dollar look like two, remember Abraham Lincoln. Forget the platitudes. Obliterate the flag waving and all the bosh. Consider only facts connected with the life of Lincoln. When a young man he ran for the legislature of Illinois, and was swamped.

He next entered business, failed and spent seventeen years of his life paying up the debts of a worthless partner.

He was in love with a beautiful young woman to whom he become engaged—then she died.

Later he married a woman who was a constant burden to him.

He then tried to get an appointment to the United States land office, but failed.

Entering politics again, he ran for Congress, and was badly defeated.

He became a candidate for United States Congress, and was badly defeated.

In 1856 he became a candidate for the vice presidency and was again defeated.

In 1858 he was defeated by Douglas.

One failure after another—and then one of the world's greatest men.

HOW TRUE!

Bryant—"The manney of speech is often more important than the matter stated."

Beeler—"Why do you say that?"

"Because there are more people who have ears to hear than brains to understand."

LITTLE BENNY'S NOTEBOOK

BY LEE PAPE

This aftirnoon in skool Miss Kitty told the class the diffrent meenings of suggestion, saying, And then there is the ixpression known as the power of suggestion. For instance if you keep on telling a persin he is pale, even if he's not, that persin mite axuilly begin to feel sick jest from the power of suggestion.

Sounding like a good thing to try, and tonite after suppir me and pop and ma was going to tthe movies, and pop was waiting for ma to get reddy and singing to himself as if h thawt he felt wonderfill, and I sed, G pop, do you feel pale or enything?

No, do you? sed pop.

And he kepp on singing to himself, and pritty soon he stopped, saying, Wy the mischiff should I feel pale, wat do you wunt to ask sutch nonsensical questions for?

Well gosh, pop, maybe you jest look pale without feeling pale, maybe its jest a coincidents, pop, I sed.

Maybe youre just conversing throo your hat, sed pop. And I kepp on looking at him and he sed, Stop that gawking at me, dident you ever see me before? and I sed, Not that pale holey smoaks, G, pop. Wich jest then ma came in saying, Are you 2 readdy for the movies? and pop sed, Mother do I or do I not look pale?

Yes, I meen no, confownd it, I don't know wat I meen, I don't beleeve I care to go to the movies, sed pop. Me saying, Aw pop, you feel all rite, you don't look pale, Miss Kitty told us about the power of suggestion this aftirnon and I was jest trying it on you.

If enybody asks for us tell them we're at the movies, sed Pop. Being a hint he wasent going to leeve me go with them.

TOMORROW

J. P. F. in "Uncle Jerry Says"

Today may be dark and forbidding;
Our hearts may be full of despair;
But tomorrow the hope that was waning
Will prompt us to do and to dare.
Today we may feel that life's sorrows
Outweigh all the joy that we crave,
But tomorrow will teach us the lesson
That life is worth while to the brave.

Faint heart is forerunner of sadness—
Despondency robs us of health,
The man who is chock full of gladness
Is the man who makes most of life's wealth.
Today may be all that is mournful—
Our paths cannot always be bright;
But tomorrow we'll somehow take courage,
And trustingly enter the fight.

Tomorrow the sun will be brighter;
Tomorrow the sun will be fair;
Tomorrow our hearts will be lighter;
We'll cast aside sorrow and care.
Remember, when heartsick and weary
The sunshine comes after the rain;
Tomorrow is time to be cheery;
Tomorrow we take hope again.

WISE BEYOND HIS YEARS

Some of the primary school books nowadays assume a port of rebus form. A sentence may read: "I see three ———" with a picture of three dogs to finish it. Animals and fowls are used in this way.

One evening recently a 6-year-old youngster was lying on his stomach getting this lesson. One line read: "I see four ———" followed by the picture of four chickens. Ronald read: "I see three hens and a rooster."

"Why, Ronald, that cannot be right," corrected his mother.

"Mumsey, dear, don't you think I know chickens when I see them?" protested the embryo farmer. "There are three hens and a rooster in that picture."

The mother dropped her work and looked at the picture. Ronald was right.—Christian Science Monitor.

EARLY TRAINING COUNTS

The detail had just arrived near the front lines when the captain looked around and noticed a private, hatless and coatless.

"Where's the rest of your uniform?" he demanded.

"Back where we came from."

"Go back and get it."

The private vanished and later reappeared, correctly uniformed, but without his rifle.

"Where's your gun?"

"Left it back where we came from."

"Listen!" bellowed the captain. "You're a fine soldier. What were you in civilian life?"

"Plumber's assistant."—American Legion Weekly.

ENCOURAGING SILENCE

"Sam Jobbles promised he would let me hear from him after he reached Washington," remarked Squire Witherbee.

"Well, has he written or telephoned?"

"No, and I'm beginning to think Sam either found a cheap place to board and hasn't run out of money yet, or he got th' job he went after."

NEWS FROM POLICE HEADQUARTERS

The regular files at police headquarters show complaint of Al Moniot that while driving his auto north on Brand boulevard, S. Belcher of 115 1-2 South Brand turned his car around in the middle of the block between Harvard and Broadway and Moniot was unable to avoid running into the Belcher car. He stated no signal of intention to turn was displayed and declared the act was contrary to traffic regulations.

A collision between the cars of E. W. Egnew of 755 West Doran and Mr. Swarthous of San Fernando road, was also reported, the damage being slight.

Police officers also investigated a report that the little son of Herbert Matthiesen of 825 South Adams street had been bitten by a dog belonging to Charles T. Noell, a disabled soldier at Thornycroft hospital. Noell promised to get rid of the dog.

A bicycle belonging to the son of Mrs. W. G. Blair of 1607 Gardena avenue was stolen on the 15th but later was found standing in front of property in the 400 block on Ivy street, where no children are living. It was returned to the right owner and it is the theory of the police department that the wheel was taken by some youngster who left it there when he was tired of using it or perhaps being afraid of apprehension.

MUSIC CLUB HAS BUSINESS SESSION

A short business session was held in the music room of the high school Friday evening by members of the Glendale Music Club. Mrs. Spencer Robinson, second vice-president presided. Minutes were read and recorded by the secretary, Mrs. L. N. Hagood. Announcements included appointments for the nominating committee, which is to secure candidates to be voted on at the meeting to be held May 20. This committee is composed of Mrs. Frank Arnold, chairman; Mrs. Eva Cunningham, Mrs. Lou Sherman, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell and Mrs. Charles Parker.

Announcement was also made of the meeting to be held at the high school May 6, at 8 p. m., at which members of the music section of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, of the Madrigal Club and of the Girls' Glee Club of the high school, will contribute to the program. At this meeting each member will be permitted to bring one guest. For each additional guest a fee of 25 cents will be charged.

Various amendments to the constitution to be voted upon May 20, were read. An early adjournment was taken that members might be free to attend the Madrigal Club concert.

"THIRTEEN SLICKERS" GIVE PRETTY DANCE

Thirteen seniors of Glendale high who have organized as "The Thirteen Slickers," gave a dance at the Eagle Rock Club house Friday night which was attended by about 60 high school students and graduates and which was a great social success. A four-piece orchestra from the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, furnished fine music.

This is the first entertainment given by the "Slickers" who expect to arrange for other dances. Their organization includes: Phillip Begue, Arthur Campbell, Dean Culbertson, Bernarr Dennison, William Farner, David Folz, James Hill, Tom McNary, Warren Meeker, Harry Merriken, Carroll Parcher, James Stewart and Bob White. The list of patrons included Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Meeker, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Webb and Mrs. Natalie Beach Hall.

AN "INTENSIVE" BUILDING STUNT

Sixty friends of A. B. Jones, comrades of his in the Woodmen of the World, and representatives of various building trades, assembled yesterday on his lot at 3320 Laclede avenue in the Atwater tract for what might be called an intensive building campaign.

"Intensive" is right, but "campaign" is hardly the word, for these men built for Mr. Jones in one day a 6-room house, complete even to the plumbing and lathing—all ready for the plasterers.

Members of Alhambra and Los Angeles Woodmen of the World lodges combined in this unique performance, and ladies of the auxiliaries served luncheon.

Knives were first made in England in 1563.

EPWORTH LEAGUE ENJOYS BANQUET

The great wave of enthusiasm and "watch us grow" spirit which is sweeping over Glendale, was shown by the songs and yells of 67 Glendale Epworth Leaguers who attended the Pasadena District Epworth League banquet and rally at the First Methodist church, Pasadena, Friday night.

In membership at the banquet the Glendalians came second to Pasadena, but in spirit and "pep" the "Glendale Bunch, Glendale Gang," as they termed themselves in a yell, was second to none.

The leaguers greatly enjoyed Dr. W. L. Y. Davis' after-dinner speech on "Influence," which was given in his own inimitable style. In part he said, "People follow the crowd. The crowd has leaders and we must be very careful whom we choose as our leaders."

After a get-acquainted game and two Pasadena stunts were enjoyed, the Pasadena Epworth League challenged the Glendale Epworth League to an indoor race, in which Glendale won. Hurrah for Glendale!

CAPABLE COOKS AND ROYAL HOSTS

The Men's Bible Class of the First Presbyterian church demonstrated Friday evening that they are not only capable cooks and right royal hosts but also that they have original and artistic ideas in matters of table decorations.

The tables in the social hall of the church where they entertained the woman's Bible class and the Lydia class with an elegant four-course fish dinner, were appropriately decorated with seaweed and each table was centered with a tiny sailboat upon a miniature ocean. Men of the class planned, cooked and served the appetizing meal, and they received many compliments on their culinary success, the most palpable compliment of all being the zest with which the guests enjoyed the meal.

George McDill acted as toastmaster, introducing J. R. Gilkerson, president of the class, who spoke words of welcome, which were responded to by Mrs. F. G. Taylor of the Lydia class and Mrs. J. R. Brown of the woman's Bible class; Rev. Dr. Blanchard, of Wheaton College, whose topic was "Modern Miracles," Rev. Louis Tinning, Dr. W. E. Edmonds, D. L. Foster, teacher of the men's class, and Stuart P. McLennon, of San Pedro, the subject of whose fine address was "Fishing."

Prayer was offered at the close of the evening by Mr. McDill. One hundred and fifty enjoyed the pleasures of the evening.

FROST DAMAGE AT "MILE HIGH" RANCH

R. A. Sipple came down from his ranch, "Mile High," near Beaumont to spend a day or two with friends in Glendale. He fears considerable damage to his deciduous fruit crops from the spring frosts which have been so unusualy late and severe. He cannot determine yet to what extent his fruit has been injured but it will soon show up if it has been nipped. Reports are coming in of heavy loss in the north and middle portions of California.

"BOBBIE" CLARKSON DEAD

Mrs. G. S. Clarkson of 707 East Colorado received a message Friday night announcing the death of her little grandson, Bobbie Clarkson, who left here with his father seven weeks ago for a trip to the east. He was a student in the East Broadway school and very popular among his mates. Mrs. Clarkson has not learned the cause of his death.

THEN SHE HURRIED HOME

Mrs. Jobson had gone away from home leaving Mr. Jobson lamenting. On arriving at her destination she missed her gold brooch and sent a postcard to her servant asking the girl to let her know if she found anything on the dining room floor when sweeping it next morning.

The servant duly replied: "Dear Madam. You ask me to let you know if I found anything when sweeping the dining room floor this morning. I beg to report that I found 30 matches, three corks and a pack of cards."

Mrs. Jobson returned by the next train. — Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

DR. EINSTEIN'S WIFE UNDERSTANDS HIM

By MARGERY REX
For International News Service

NEW YORK, April 18.—What is his wife like?

How often we say that of a man in the public eye! Everyone wonders what sort of woman interests and holds the affection of a great man—everyone is curious as to the characteristics of the one he has chosen for his helpmate.

The world wants to know whether the genius has married a woman in sympathy with his ideals or opposed to them; whether she likes the things that interest him or not; whether she mothers him or bothers him.

I called upon Professor Albert Einstein and attempted to discuss with him his theory of "Relativity." Professor Einstein, although a discoverer of revolutionary scientific theories which tend to obliterate time and space, a distinguished physicist and lecturer is a member of the Zionist delegation headed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann which is here to offer to the consideration of Jews in America plans for a great university to be erected in Jerusalem.

Stops Talking About Theories

A gracious and charming little woman met the writer at the door and begged her to desist at least from attemptts to discuss "relativity" with its discoverer.

"My husband"—it was Mrs. Einstein who spoke—"is so overwrought with requests for discussions that he has decided not to say any more about his theories; that is, for the present."

Just then Mr. Einstein came forward. Tall, suave in manner, with high forehead and mop of black hair as his only professional symptoms, the scientist looked at his wife questionably and was told what was up.

The two made a vivid contrast in appearance. Mrs. Einstein is of medium stature, with light brown hair and gray eyes, a well-poised woman who combines dignity with a pleasant vivacity of manner. Her dark brown frock of satin and velvet, trimmed with marten fur bands, belies the frequent assumption that the learned and their near of kin affect the dowdy and careless in dress.

Einstein is a great Jewish personage, as well as a distinguished physicist. He is actively interested in the university plan, according to his wife, who speaks English fluently and who acted as interpreter.

"In Europe, in the Far East," she translated for me from her husband's statement, "there are so many poor Jewish families who are without homes. Their children have great potentialities. Their young men need an institution, where education can be offered them. Hence this plan to establish a university in Jerusalem. Poor students now have no place to study, and if help is not given will be unfitted for life.

"As for the outbreaks of anti-Jewish sentiment, of which we learn here and there at times, my husband believes they are caused by the passions let loose by war, the hatred of nation against nation, race against race.

Respects Woman's Intelligence

Professor Einstein stood at the window whence he looked west over Forty-second street, great thoroughfare where traffic dashes along against time and where skyscrapers seem to defy all natural laws.

Mrs. Einstein smiled and repeated that we had a small chance of getting the professor to discuss his theory.

"Perhaps he thinks a woman wouldn't be really interested enough to understand?" And she translated this for him.

Vehement denial from the scientist followed.

"No, he doesn't agree with that," Mrs. Einstein said. "He thinks women are the equal of men in understanding. It is simply that he can't give enough time to explain it to you."

"I myself can't comprehend it, and I think few women can," she admitted. "No, I am not a scientist. I believe two scientists could marry, but such is not the case with our marriage.

"I am just a wife; my husband likes a rest when he comes home—he has enough science elsewhere," she laughed, and was compelled by the discoverer of "Relativity" to translate again.

The Einsteins have two grown daughters in Europe, Margot and Ilsa, Mrs. Einstein is a cousin of her present husband and her maiden name was Ilsa Einstein.

Professor Einstein is not a one-sided person, all of whose energies are bent in one direction. He is an accomplished violinist, and he adds yachting to his hobbies, being a keen sportsman.

Their family circle is not a small one by any means, since it includes two sons of the scientist by a former marriage. Both the physicist and his wife are citizens of Switzerland.

The fame which visited them almost "overnight" as European journals have described it, and which has made them citizens of the world, nevertheless, has left them unassuming and unfailingly good humored, despite the various demands fame has brought with her.

Child Shows Unusual Talent

MARGOT BUXTON

The little girl pictured in the costume of the Doll Court Jester, whose dance at the entertainment for the State Convention of the P. E. O. at Burbank, caused such a furore, is but nine years of age. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turck of South Glendale avenue, this city, and has been pronounced by professionals who have seen her dancing a child of wonderful promise. Alfred Fisher, the veteran actor who left Glendale last week en route to England, says that in all his experience as actor and instructor, he has never seen her like. Her parents, who have been residents of Chicago, have quit that city because of their disgust with lax conditions. They were held up by footpads one evening when returning from an entertainment and say that hold-ups even in broad daylight are of the most common occurrence. They are now in New York and may locate there, or better yet, in Mrs. Turck's view, they may come to this coast. They find it very hard to do without their charming little daughter. Her only instructors have been Marie Beatch of Chicago and Mr. Belcher of Los Angeles. She is an imaginative child and makes her own interpretations in most cases. A notable example is her Chinese dance in which she depicts the fears and relief of the little girl in the garden when a thunder storm comes up and passes.

BOY EXONERATED BY CORONER'S JURY

(By International News Service)

CORVALLIS, Ore., April 18.—Ray Stratton, 12 years old, who shot and killed Dick Logsden Friday night in order to defend his crippled father, has been exonerated by a coroner's jury. Logsden attacked the elder Stratton while he was driving along the road in company with his son. He jerked Stratton from his buggy, knocked him to the ground and was choking and beating him when Ray ordered Logsdon to desist, according to the evidence before the coroner's jury. When the latter failed to obey, Ray shot him, it was testified.

"LIMOUSINE LADY" SOUGHT BY POLICE

(By International News Service)

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 18.—A richly gowned, jewel-bedecked "limousine lady" is being sought by police detectives and sheriffs' officers here. Warnings of her activities have been sent broadcast over the state as a result of a series of swindles perpetrated by her on local merchants through the medium of spurious checks.

That the woman is a master hand at the art of fictitious check passing and that she has left a trail of worthless paper throughout many parts of the country was the belief exepressed by Sheriff George Lyle, following a survey of the "limousine lady's" dupe of local merchants.

JAPANESE STORING FOOD IN VLADIVOSTOK

(By International News Service)

SEATTLE, Wash., April 18.—"Japanese have thousands of tons of foodstuffs stored in Vladivostock, but they won't release a pound of it to the Russians," said James Rosenberger, American fur buyer, who is here after two years spent in Manchuria.

"It is rumored there will be a revolution against the Japanese in Siberia this spring and the Japanese are not going to be caught unprepared if they can prevent it.

"Japan is buying land in Harbin, which is now controlled by the Chinese. Japan has troops in Vladivostock and Harbin. She is trying to get control of the Siberian railroad as far east as Lake Baikal.

"The Japanese are doing everything possible to hinder trade with the United States. When a great leader appears in Russia then America may expect to reap an enormous trade with Siberia. Thos people like American goods and would buy now if they had the money."

THERE WAS A REASON

"Why do you turn out for every road hog that comes along?" said the missus rather crossly. "The right of ways is ours, isn't it?"

"Oh, undoubtedly!" answered he, calmly. "As for our turning out, the reason is plainly suggested in this epitaph which appeared in a newspaper recently:

"Here lies the body of William Jay,
Who died maintaining his right of way;
He was right, dead right, as he sped along,
But he's just as dead as if he'd been wrong.

WHAT BOSTONIANS THINK OF GLENDALE

Mrs. Annie Nye Smith and her sister, Miss Mary Nye, who have been spending the winter at the home of Mrs. M. E. Lindsay, 331 Salem street, left Sunday for their home in Boston, stopping on the way at Chicago and Indianapolis.

That the ladies enjoyed their first visit in Glendale is demonstrated by a clipping from a Boston daily in which a quarter of a column was devoted to a letter written to Boston friends, setting forth the beauties of Glendale and its environs, the wonders of our motion picture studios, the delights of motoring to the various beauty spots of Southern California, the historic interest of the old missions, and their keen enjoyment of the Mission Play at San Gabriel.

UNITED STATES POSTAL SAVINGS

The utility of the United States postal savings system is evidenced by the fact that its aggregate deposits continue to maintain a minimum level of more than $10,000,000 each month. The total deposits on April 1 were approximately $161,150,000.

The Los Angeles office, of which the Glendale office is a branch, is listed as one of the postal savings depository offices with amounts on deposit in excess of $100,000. The exact amount on deposit in this office is $928,441.

The total deposits in the United States postal savings system on April 1 were approximately $161,150,000. The office at Phoenix, Ariz., which ranked 139th in the amount on deposit on March 1, had attained the rank of 58th on April 1, with a deposit increase of $158,064.

SUNDAY SERVICES AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Bible school attendance at Central Christian keeps climbing. Yesterday's record was 241. The morning church service was held as usual. Rev. Cole's subject being "Christian Fidelity." His text was, "Be thou faithful unto death and thou shalt wear the crown of life." The speaker said this saying did not mean only that the Christian should be faithful to the end of his days, but that he should keep the faith even if by so doing he met death. Christ is the head of the church and the members the body. The body must keep faith with the head, if the church expects to grow and prosper.

There was no evening service on account of the tabernacle meeting.

TWO PERMITS WERE ISSUED THIS MORNING

W. S. May, contractor, took out two permits this morning, one for the erection of an eight-room, duplex residence, with two-room garage, at 236-238 North Orange, for Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, contract price $5796. It is to have stucco exterior. The other is for Mrs. M. McDaniel, and it is to be a duplex also, but of six rooms only, at 313-315 Hawthorne. The contract price is $4000. "Bill" May is an old-time builder and scores of residences in Glendale have resounded to his hammer blows in the last 15 years.

DR. COCHRAN WILL APPEAL HIS CASE

A. D. Cochran, Glendale chiropractor, with offices at 112 East Broadway, was convicted on Friday by a jury in Judge Houser's court on a charge of practicing medicine without a license and sentenced to 90 days in jail. Dr. Cochran through his attorneys has appealed the case.

Dr. Cochran was recently tried on a similar charge before Judge Miller of this city, who dismissed the case.

"COUNTREE FAIR" WAS VERY CLEVER

The "Countree Fair" with which the Christian Endeavor societies of the First Christian church entertained their friends on Friday evening was one of the cleverest bits of nonsense yet evolved from the inner conscientiousness of witty Frances Musser and her capable committee.

A penny was the price of admission to each booth; for this fair price one might enter the booth where Mack Sennett's Bathing Beauties (celluloid dolls in a pan of water), were on exhibition; for another copper one was permitted to view a swimming match (two matches in a pan of water; moving pictures—they really moved—were exhibited in another booth; and in still another, Hiram Corntossel's latest edition to the poultry show, a beautiful white (stuffed) rooster was much admired.

In a get-acquainted game at the beginning of the evening three nickels were given to three unidentified persons in the company and the 13th person shaking hands with the holder of a nickel received the coin.

Indoor baseball, stage coach, spoon, sack and cotton races were other pastimes and refreshments of sandwiches and lemonade were served to the 35 or 40 participants in the merry evening.

For the express delectation of Dr. C. A. Cole, their pastor ,a special stunt was arranged. Misses Evelyn Walker and Edith Learned sang the following song, assisted by Miss Frances Musser, who played the accompaniment a la chimes by pulling the two long braids of hair that fell over the shoulders of the two singers. The words of the song follow:

While the organ pealed bananas,
Lard was rendered by the choir,
While the sexton tolled the church bell
Someone set the church on fire;
"Holy Smoke!" the preacher shouted,
In the rush he lost his hair,
Now his head resembles heaven,
For there is no parting there.

RECOGNITION OF GOD REQUIRED

Rev. W. E. Edmonds

Rev. W. E. Edmonds preached Sunday morning at the Presbyterian church about Glendale's greatest need, the text being three passages from Psalm 119, which all say, "Quicken Thou me according to Thy Word."

We in Glendale have many genuine needs. But we may have all these met, and yet lack the most important of all. The greatest is for a new recognition of God. Those who rebel, God cannot have dealigs with until they repent. The one who prays "Quicken thou me" is one who is on praying ground, but with life that is sluggish, cold; there has been a letting down. The love, peace, joy, should be as a flowing stream.

There should be quickening in self-sacrifice. You owe your life to be given in unselfish service.

You need to be quickened in your faith in God's power to save and keep. And there need to be quickening as to our beliefs, our convictions. There is a great looseness abroad today. Some of it comes through the movie. On account of the great wrong in the movie on the great things of life, the whole thing needs to go. As liquor has had to go, so it will have to be with the movie.

There is too, a looseness about the Sabbath and family religion, and as to matters of belief. What do you stand for about all these things? Are there not longer people who believe something definite, and who are willing to live and die for it? There are no martyrs' fates for us now, and we ought to be far more than we are.

You need this quickening from God in order to stand up under the problems of life, and the hidden griefs or trials, and the discouragements.

It is a personal request, "Quicken thou me:" it is for myself. And it is "according to thy word." As we stake our everything on this word God will look after us and his word.

We are told of a memorable occasion in the preaching of the great Jonathan Edwards, when his congregation was so tremendously moved by the message; and the secret of it was that some of his members had shut themselves up to prayer for God's hand of power upon their minister.

In the name of Christ the lover of men, then, "Quicken thou me according to Thy word!"

SPLENDID SERVICE AT TABERNACLE

Large Audience Fills Every Seat in Vast Auditorium and Enjoys the Music

It was ao inspiring sight Sunday night to see the vast audience gathered at the tabernacle on West Harvard street for the opening of the series of evangelistic meetings to be conducted by John E. Brown and his corps of workers. Every bench was filled to capacity even to the benches lining the walls, and a few were standing in the rear.

In spite of the cheapness of the building it was a very attractive setting and better yet the acoustic properties proved to be almost perfect. The soft, yellow tint of the new pine of which it is built was restful and satisfying to the eye and its garnishings of long palm fronds was a triumph in decoration, simple, dignified, beautiful, as if these symbols of victory had been taken from some triumphal procession and the victory they symbolized celebrated in song. Perhaps that was the thought back of the splendid dedication, which was chiefly a song service.

At the grand piano, which had only been secured after strenuous effort on the part of Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, chairman of the local music committee, sat Mrs. William Crawford, and she it was who played the accompaniments for the melodies in which choir and congregation united.

In the choir loft were about 150 singers from the choirs of the Glendale churches. They were led by Howard Brown because Mrs. Retts, having solo work to do, did not feel equal to the double task.

Special numbers by choir representatives were:

Trio—"Praise e (Verdi) by Miss Isgrig, Mr. Kuehny and Mr. Haines, of the choir of the First Methodist church with Mrs. Randall at the piano.

Duet—"I Waited for the Lord" (Mendelssohn), Mrs. Floyd Mercer and Mrs. Cleo Stoler of the Christian church, Mrs. Musser playing the accompaniment.

Solo—"The Ninety and Nine" (Campion), Mrs. Neighbors of the Baptist church, with Mrs. Crawford at the piano.

Quartet—"Round the Throne of God Eternal" (Donizetti), by members of the Presbyterian choir, viz., Mrs. Helen Graham Cole, soprano; Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts, contralto; Orrin L. Padel, tenor, and C. Clifford Riggs, baritone.

Solo—"It's Real" (Cox), Mrs. Fannie Marple Retts.

Mrs. Retts states that 220 singers have signed pledges to assist with choir work during the meetings and she expects a fine chorus at all times. As soon as Evangelist Otis Ironmonger arrives and takes charge of the singing, which will be Tuesday night, the strenuous work of the committee will be over.

It was a disappointment to the audience to learn that Mr. Brown and Mr. Ironmonger had been detained at Hanford to complete a wonderful series of meetings they have been holding there and would not be able to reach Glendale until Tuesday, but they felt compensated by a service which was fine and inspiring in spite of the absence of the leaders.

Rev. Clyde Monroe Crist, president of the ministerial association, expressed his great satisfaction in the occasion and his high hopes of the benefits Glendale will receive from the services in prospect. He then introduced Rev. C. M. Calderwood, who made the chief invocation.

Rev. E. E. Ford made the announcements, and Dr. Edmonds, who also expresseed his joy in the occasion, introduced Mrs. Neth of Hollywood, who has charge of work among women and girls, who made an eloquent address on the theme, "Created in Jesus Christ," taking her text from the second chapter of Ephesians.

The "skillet" offering of the evening, collected in long handled frying pans by the ushers, created quite a diversion.

COLE & DAMERELL BLOCK OCCUPIED

Cole & Damerell have had no difficulty in finding tenants for their new building on West Broadway. It was all rented long before it was ready for use. The chamber of commerce has taken one storeroom and occupied it even before the walls were quite dry. To help out their gas and electric stoves were left burning during the Saturday half holiday.

The store at 113 West Broadway is to be occupied jointly by Cole & Damerell as a real estate office and by the Metropolitan Building and Loan Company, a branch of a Los Angeles corporation which is soon to open up a business here.
